

The LSI Advantage

Labeling Systems (LSI), a Pro Mach brand, designs and manufactures heavy duty, pressure-sensitive labeling equipment. For more than 30 years, pharmaceutical, food, beverage and other consumer goods companies have relied on LSI's robust labelers for consistent quality and performance in nonstop, around-the-clock production environments.

LSI offers complete turnkey, automatic labeling systems, as well as stand-alone, semi-automatic labelers. LSI's modular design approach allows easy packaging line integration and product changeover. Our extensive line of standard products and modular components provides solutions for most customer applications. However, LSI's commitment to engineering and manufacturing excellence has earned us a reputation as one of the leading designers of custom labeling solutions.

All products and solutions are designed and rigorously tested by LSI's dedicated team in our Research and Development Electronics Laboratory and state-of-the-art manufacturing facility. LSI stands behind our products with outstanding customer service, including in-house training, parts and professional service and repair.

LSI provides stand-alone or complete turnkey labeling systems, including product handling and sensing equipment for most applications or label requirements.

Portable head mounts such as t-base stands are standard options along with custom head mounts to match specific customer needs.

Products and Solutions

LSI provides stand-alone or turnkey labeling systems complete with conveyors for most needs, including bottles, caps, vials, cartons, boxes, cylinders, clamshells, unique packages and pallets. Every LSI labeler is designed for positive label and product control, simple changeover and operation, and easy maintenance.

LSI's product portfolio includes:

- Print and apply labeling heads
- Apply-only labeling heads
- Custom labeling heads
- Product sensing and handling
- Head mountings

LSI manufactures a complete line of standard pressure-sensitive labelers. Our modular approach to design allows for easy integration, changeover and upgrades.

LSI provides systems to label nearly any kind of product or requirement, including side panel, top panel, wrap around, corner wrap, front and back, leading/trailing, bottom labeling, and print and apply.
